From the development of the Island, the West Coast has grown and extended in order to become a place where its residents will find all the facilities needed. The great part of this evolution is that the diversity and the nature has always been respected to keep the charm and authenticity of the place. Actually, it is a really great thing because more and more people are looking for places endorsed by green spaces and leaving busy cities.

If you are looking for a place like this, and where the vibe can be easily felt in the air by a relaxed mood and a friendly atmosphere, West Coast is for you.

A WILD LIFESTYLE THE WEST

The West Coast of Mauritius is well known for the Black River Gorges National Park but not only. A natural environment is created to live a peaceful lifestyle balanced between a healthy way of life, a developed level of education in the area and available great places to work.

Always considered as the wild area of Mauritius, the West Coast has been for a long time surrounded only by forest, beaches and some fishers. It was all along the coast, only fishers villages without shops and facilities.
